

To whom it may concern, Interesting that you want to ban XM's instant traffic and weather but have stood idle in the face of larger issues like BPL (Broadband over Power Lines) which threaten amateur radio broadcasts all over the country. Focus the priorities, XM is providing an invaluable service and when I drive from Iowa City, IA to my hometown in Hinsdale, IL I like to have XM's instant traffic and weather when I need it, especially for those times when the AM/FM is just not coming in. Do what you want, but I love XM's traffic and weather, banning such a service is just like allowing BPL to go forward without looking at the larger picture.

Sincerely,

William Hamel IV
